Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1,2,55,57 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Liddicoat et al (US 2002/0183838).

See especially figures 17-20, and paragraphs 108 and 109. The bend in body 157, or 184, clearly can be directed to a discrete portion of the mitral valve annulus.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. Claims 9,43,45,64 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Liddicoat et al.

To make the force applier, 157 or 184, a shape such that more than one discrete point is touched is considered to be obvious. The skilled artisan would understand that the body 157 or 184 could be shaped into a variety of configurations in order to be applying pressure to the coronary sinus wall next to the annulus. See also paragraph 109, lines 1 and 2, where it is taught that a variety of shapes can be used. Regarding claim 43, one of ordinary skill in the art would know, in light of the teachings of Liddicoat, that cardiomyopathy can be treated by changing the shape of the mitral valve.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 16-42,65 are allowed.
5. Claims 3-8,10-15,44,46-54,56,58-63 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Because new art has been applied, this action is not being made final.
